Course overview

This day school offers a unique exploration of local history by examining the lives and contributions of 3 remarkable women who left indelible marks on society, culture, and politics. From ancient warriors to a mystic and an influential writer, each woman represents a distinct era in British history, shedding light on the struggles, achievements, and societal changes of their times. Throughout the day, we will delve into the lives of these extraordinary women, analysing their impact on local and British society and their enduring legacies. By studying their stories, learners will gain a deeper understanding of key historical events, social movements, and cultural shifts that have shaped the fabric of Britain.

Course description

This course allows learners to familiarize themselves with important events, movements and figures in local and British history through the lens of women's experience. Examining the roles and contributions of these women in shaping British society, politics, and literature through the lives of well-known and some lesser-known women. Starting with Boudicca's rebellion against Roman rule we will analyse her leadership, tactics, and significance in early British history. Moving on to examine Margery Kempe and her life and legacy as a Lynn local mother, businesswoman, pilgrim and mystic. Finally considering Fanny Burney, her childhood and upbringing in Lynn and subsequent experiences in Georgian London society and examining her later.
